The Inbox Window

Windows Live Hotmail – Compose a Message

This window opens when you click NEW (Compose a new message) as shown on tutorial page - Windows Live Hotmail – Mail page. Here you can send a message to anyone in the World if you have their email address and it doesn't matter if they use a different program than Windows Live Hotmail to read it (i.e Yahoo mail or Microsoft Outlook). If you open a received message to read there will be a link called Reply which you can click to reply to the sender in a similar window to below – you just type your reply above the message you've received and click Send

Send: Click to Send your finished message

Contacts: Click here to enter an often used address you have saved in Contacts so you don't have to type it in the To box. You can add a new contact also.

From: In the From box enter your own Hotmail address (your account Email address)

To: Enter here the recipients exact email /hotmail address

Subject: Enter the subject of your message here

Navigation: These links stay visible whatever window you open in Hotmail so you can easily navigate.

Formatting: If you wish to change the default text your message is written in, format your message text by selecting the text you wish to change (Left Click and drag over it) and alter it by using the format buttons/icons. They work just like those in word processing programs i.e MS Word.

Smilies: Click here to add a smile to your message

Message Body: Type your message in this box. The box will expand to take long messages.
